

“Loyola has many opportunities for students to flourish academically and socially. What I love is how our professors are consistently available outside of the classroom. Throughout my time so far, I have found support from the amazing teachers to develop connections and get the help I need in classes. My education has strengthened my leadership skills and is preparing me for my future career.”

— Hannah, computer science and data science double major

“Loyola creates opportunities to advance students' academic learning beyond the classroom. My education and experience at Loyola have helped me grow to be stronger as an individual.”

— Chris, communication and marketing major
