Aidan,
you're invited to apply to DU with the Common App and receive full consideration for merit-based scholarships!

Dear Aidan,

The University of Denver is looking for high-achieving students who are ready for peak performance in college. I believe you're one of those students, and I'm reaching out now to invite you to apply to DU.

You can access the Common App by visiting commonapp.org or by scanning the code provided. Simply add DU to your list of schools, and know that when you apply, you'll automatically receive full consideration for merit-based scholarships ranging from $12,000 to $33,000 annually.

DU is a test-optional university and does not require test scores. However, if you've taken the SAT or ACT before and believe that your scores are an accurate representation of your abilities and potential, feel free to submit your test scores for consideration.

November 1 is the application deadline for both Early Action and Early Decision I. January 15 is the application deadline for Regular Decision and Early Decision II. Students admitted during our binding Early Decision rounds will receive an additional $5,000 annual merit aid award, and top academic performers will have their full demonstrated financial need met. Additionally, Early Decision applicants enjoy stronger consideration for admission and benefit from earlier admission and financial aid notifications.

As a student at the University of Denver, you'll learn and grow in ways you've never imagined.

Whether you're studying abroad through our Cherrington Global Scholars program, tackling an internship in one of the fastest-growing cities in the United States or experiencing the Rocky Mountains at our James C. Kennedy Mountain Campus (just a two-hour drive from DU's city campus), you'll find that knowledge can be found everywhere—it's more exciting that way!

I look forward to considering you for admission as soon as possible and seeing how you'll be you at DU.

Sincerely,
